

PAGE: 1

1. Do you feel that the 1-minute essays and Discussion Board responses supplemented your education? Create Chart Download

	Response Percent	Response Count
Yes	93.3%	14
No	0.0%	0
Somewhat	6.7%	1
answered question		15
skipped question		0

2. How useful were the 1-minute essays followed by Discussion Board responses? Create Chart Download

	Response Percent	Response Count
Not useful at all	0.0%	0
Somewhat useless	0.0%	0
Neutral	0.0%	0
Somewhat useful	33.3%	5
Very useful	66.7%	10
answered question		15
skipped question		0

3. What do you believe is an appropriate frequency for the use of 1-minute essays in the classroom? Create Chart Download

	Response Percent	Response Count
Every class period	46.7%	7
Every other class period	40.0%	6
Once per module/modality	13.3%	2
Once per semester	0.0%	0
Never	0.0%	0
answered question		15
skipped question		0

Free Response

The essays provided a way to ask some questions anonymously that I didn't want to ask out loud :) They were an excellent way to eliminate potential sources of confusion early and quickly.

12/5/2011 6:12 PM

It was good that I was forced to quickly review the lecture after every class period and write down a question. When it came to studying for tests, I would always review the Discussion Board. But for some of the supplemental materials attached there, if I didn't deem them necessary for studying, I would not make time to go through them. Overall, though, the essays / Discussion Board responses were great tools.

12/5/2011 4:58 PM

It is a very good method to learn supplementary material. I really learn a lot from it.

12/5/2011 4:55 PM

Both of them are extremely useful. The essay paper can be given before the class, because I found myself forgetting what I meant to write on the essay at the end of the class.

12/5/2011 3:51 PM

One idea is that the essay sheets should be handed out at the start of class and returned to the TA at the end. Students could then write doubts as they arise, during lecture. Also TA could encourage 1-minute essay submissions via email.

12/2/2011 2:01 PM

I felt they were a very good tool, but they would be better used if you provided them every other class period, and allowed us a little more time to think about what we would like answered. However, even in their current form, they were an excellent way to have questions answered succinctly outside of class.

12/2/2011 12:15 AM

Such a brilliant idea and great service to the students. I really appreciate all the hard work Jered put into this and I am quite amazed by his level of commitment. Thanks so much.

12/2/2011 11:40 AM

I really appreciated the effort put forth by Jered to make sure we understood the material. I thought this was a great tool, especially since it helps you reflect upon the class while the lecture is still fresh in your mind.

12/2/2011 10:11 AM

The 1-minute essays were very useful for the x-ray part which had a lot of new material and math. For the other modalities the material was somewhat familiar or the handouts/books covered it better.

12/2/2011 9:42 AM

It added a different element to the class and stemmed conversations regarding class material outside of class. It also helped clarify some things that may not have been clear at first.

12/2/2011 8:56 AM